

OVER 2,000 PROPELLERS IN STOCK And ready for fast delivery

That's the proud boast of London based Sillette Sonic Ltd. who are sole UK importers and distributors for Gori folding propellers and Eliche Radice propellers in the UK. The company confirmed just how many props were on the shelves during their latest stock check!

This comprehensive stock of two and three bladed propellers, fixed and folding in aluminium and bronze and in a wide variety of sizes and pitches is backed by expertise and knowledge built up over the past 33 years, allowing the company to help trade customers and boat owners to select exactly the right prop to match boat, engine and performance.

There are 10 inch to 22 inch propellers in a range of different pitches to suit sailboats and displacement motor boats from 6 metres right up to 14 metres. In fact, the Sillette team say that in most cases after talking to an owner, designer or a marine engineer, they can advise on exactly the right prop and despatch it immediately.

As a manufacturer of sterndrives and saildrives (the Sillette Sonic range) themselves, the company have a particularly well researched expertise in this specialised area and have specified and supplied propulsion equipment for many famous and successful long distance and racing yachtsmen and women.

Glen Print, MD of Sillette comments, "It's surprising just how much confusion on selecting a prop there is out there. We often talk to people who have either self-selected or been advised to purchase completely inappropriate propellers. Just getting it right can have a huge effect on speed, performance, engine life, vibration and economy"

Glen also says that one of their most common challenges is helping clients who have been badly advised on a new engine and gear ratio for re-engining projects only to find that they now have no room to swing the new prop that this requires. In fact he suggests that the first step in such a project should possibly be to start with the Propeller and the space available.

The company also supplies, shafts, seals, “P” brackets and rope cutters, in fact anything to go with marine propulsion systems, all backed by an in-house engineering workshop which can modify, manufacture or adjust just about any of their product range to fit or match custom requirements.

If it wasn't such a mouthful you might even say that Sillette was a “one stop prop shop”
